

Sligo County Development Plan Record of Protected Structures 2017-2023

What is a Record of Protected Structures?

A Record of Protected Structures (RPS) is a mechanism for the statutory protection of the architectural heritage of an area. Under the Planning and Development Act 2000 (as amended), each planning authority is required to compile and maintain an RPS for its functional area. The RPS forms part of the development plan and must include every structure that is, in the opinion of the planning authority, of special architectural, historical, archaeological, artistic, cultural, scientific, social or technical interest. By including structures on the RPS, their importance is recognised and highlighted, they are legally protected from adverse impacts to their character and structural integrity and there is potential access for property owners to grant aid for conservation works.

A planning authority may add a record to, or delete a structure from its RPS when reviewing its development plan or at any other time. The Minister for the Arts, Heritage and the Gaeltacht may also make recommendations to a planning authority concerning the inclusion of a structure on its RPS.

In relation to a protected or proposed protected structure, the term 'structure' includes the interior of the structure, the land lying within the curtilage of the structure, any other structures lying within that curtilage (and their interiors) and all fixtures and features that form part of the interior or exterior of the structure. The protection also extends to any specified feature within the attendant grounds of the structure (for definitions refer to Section 2(1) of the Planning and Development Act 2000 as amended).

The owner or occupier of a protected structure is entitled to ask the Council for a written declaration indicating the type of works that would or would not materially affect the character of that structure, or any element of it that contributes to its special interest. Declarations provide guidance as to what works would or would not require planning permission in the context of the protection of the architectural heritage.

Alternatively, if an owner of a protected structure (or proposed protected structure) wishes to determine whether particular works to the structure would constitute exempted development under the provisions of the Planning and Development Acts or whether they would require planning permission, the person may apply for a Certificate of Exempted Development in accordance with Section 5 of the Planning and Development Act 2000 (as amended).
